JURY CONVICTS SPOCK, 3 OTHERS

Negroes Convicted Of Plot

To Kill Two Moderate Civil Rights Leaders

NEW YORK (AP) — Herman B. Ferguson and Arthur Harris, both Negroes, were convicted today of conspiring to murder moderate civil rights leaders Roy Wilkins and Whitney Young Jr.

An all-male jury returned a guilty verdict after deliberating for more than 10 hours.

The trial in Queens Supreme Court ended Friday after eight days of testimony.

Each man faces up to seven years in prison. No date for sentencing was set immediately.

Ferguson, 46, who was suspended as assistant principal of a Queens public school following his arrest a year ago, and Harris, 22, were among 16 persons rounded up and accused in connection with the plot.

TARGETS OF PLOT

Wilkins is executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and Young is executive director of the National Urban League. Both men testified during the trial.

Pending sentencing, Ferguson and Harris remained free in $20,000 bail each.

Ferguson, Harris and others face criminal anarchy charges in other indictment. The constitutionality of this indictment is being tested in federal court.

The prosecution contended, chiefly through testimony of undercover city detective Edward Lee Howlette, that Ferguson and Harris, along with Howlette, were members of a "terrorist cell" which plotted the assassinations.

UNDERCOVER AGENT

Howlette said he had infiltrated the Black Revolutionary movement 18 months ago and later helped the conspirators form a rifle club.

Howlette quoted Ferguson as saying at one time that the moderates should be "killed or their houses firebombed" for "selling out the people."

In other testimony, Howlette described how Ferguson received six pistols from an associate in Atlanta, Ga., giving a .25-caliber each to Harris and Howlette and keeping a .32-caliber for himself before selling the other three guns to other associates.

Howlette also recounted how he and Harris drove in Howlette's car to the Queens residence of Wilkins to seek an ambush site on April 8, 1967.

Chief Foes To War In Vietnam

Charged With Plot To Aid Draft Dodgers

BOSTON (AP) — Baby doctor Benjamin Spock, Yale University Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr., and two others have been convicted of conspiracy to counsel young men to evade the draft. A fifth defendant was acquitted.

"My main defense," Spock said, "was that I believed a citizen must work against a war he feels is contrary to international law. The court has decided to feel differently."

After the conviction Friday night by an all-male federal jury, Spock's counsel, Leonard Boudin, and defense attorneys for the other three said there would be an appeal to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The four men were expected to carry their appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, if necessary, as part of their opposition to the Vietnam war.

Convicted with Coffin and the 65-year-old pediatrician were Michael Ferber, 23, a Harvard graduate student, and Mitchell Goodman, 44, a writer and teacher from Temple, Maine.

FOUR WEEK TRIAL

Marcus Raskin, 34, a Washington research director, was found innocent by the jury after seven hours and 20 minutes of deliberation. The trial began May 20 and lasted four weeks.

Raskin walked from the 12th floor courtroom in federal courthouse, his head down and tears in his eyes.

"I feel very good for myself," he said in a choked voice, "and badly for the others."

Raskin's lawyer, Calvin Bartlett, maintained during the trial that Raskin was not part of any conspiracy and barely knew his co-defendants.

U.S. District Judge Francis J. W. Ford ordered Spock and the other three freed in personal recognizance until sentencing on July 10. They face maximum sentences of five-year prison terms and $10,000 fines.

The jury, in a list of findings on specific charges made in the indictment found that Spock and the other three conspired to counsel, aid and abet Selective Service registrants to refuse or evade duties under the Selective Service Act.

"My belief has always been," Coffin said, "that the issues we wanted to bring before the court were never argued. That's the legality and constitutionality of the war and the draft. Perhaps the appeals level is the place to do it."

Later, at a news conference on the first floor of the courthouse Coffin added, "I speak for all. If this is a conspiracy, we have the lightning bug confused with the lightning."

Coffin added he was "absolutely delighted" that Raskin was acquitted and described the acquittal as "an important victory for the First Amendment," which guarantees free speech.

"If the jury had found all five of us guilty there would have been the danger of an epidemic of indictments against people who are protesting the draft and the war."

Ferber also said it was "in- (See back page, sec. 1, col. 1)

Hannah Hit For Letting SDS Meet

Legislators Visit Student Convention

EAST LANSING (AP) — IF Michigan State University President John A. Hannah knew the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) had been allowed to meet on the campus he should be asked to resign, a state legislator said Friday.

Rep. Harold Clark, D-Warren, made the statement following a hectic, surprise visit to the SDS national convention at the MSU Student Union.

Clark and Sen. John Bowman, D-Roseville, later attempted to see Hannah at his home across the street from the union. They were told the president had "other appointments and can't see us," the senator said.

Earlier, the legislators had walked into the lobby of the convention area, followed by a television crew and a female reporter from the Lansing State Journal, which has been barred from covering convention activities at the request of the MSU chapter.

Local members contended the Journal had "distorted" stories about disorders at the University last week.

Delegates immediately protested the use of cameras, also barred from the convention, and the presence of the Journal reporter.

Members tried to cover the camera lens with paper and a loud hassle, punctuated with obscenities directed at the reporter by a few people, failed to get either the cameras or the reporter ejected.

(The second floor union lobby, filled with booths displaying literature, connected with groups at the convention, is a public place and open to all.)

Other members urged delegates to return to the closed meeting.

Bowman and Clark, meanwhile, leisurely browsed through the literature and spent nearly an hour talking with delegates, both curious and hostile.

"We just came in to look," Bowman explained. "We had heard SDS was having a convention and just drove up (from the Detroit area) to see for ourselves."

YOUTH OBJECTS

"They're trying to get pictures for their campaigns," muttered one youth. "They can say 'we talk to hippies.'" House members face campaigns this fall, but Senate terms run through 1970.

Get Out Of BH, Gamblers Told

McClaren Issues Ultimatum As Police Strike Twice

By JIM SHANAHAN
BH City Editor

Police Chief William McClaren Friday told four convicted gamblers they face continued police surveillance and further arrests if they continue illegal operations in the City of Benton Harbor.

McClaren's advice was given in a soft-spoken, friendly manner. But in effect, it meant: "Get out of Benton Harbor if you want to gamble."

Police are applying increasing pressure on gambling. Two raids yesterday resulted in the arrests of 20 persons.

McClaren led a daylight raid that netted two of the best known names in this area's gaming ranks — Sylvester (Windy) Langley, 52, of 1227 Broadway, and Jimmy Jenkins, 61, of 716 McAlister avenue.

FINED $149

They were apprehended at 713 Thresher avenue in which numbers slips were confiscated. It cost Jenkins and Langley each $149.70 when they pleaded guilty in municipal court to charges of being inmates of a gambling room and possession of gambling paraphernalia.

The same amount also was paid by Frank Harden, 60, of 533 Green avenue, and Luther Morgan, 67, of 713 Thresher. The charges were identical except that Morgan was accused as keeper of a disorderly gambling house instead of an inmate.

Jenkins and Langley have previous arrest records for gambling. McClaren arrived in town in February and soon became acquainted with Jenkins as a result of a raid on a "flats" pool room. Yesterday was the first time, McClaren has arrested Langley.

In the second raid at 714 Highland avenue, last night, Benton Harbor police arrested 16 persons and confiscated $43,211, a dice horn and three dice. Police said they left the table, the only one the occupants had to eat on, but took the tablecloth.

Arrested on a charge of being a keeper of a disorderly house was Elzo Bonds, 46, of 714 Highland avenue.

Arrested on a charge of being an inmate of a disorderly house were his wife Corrine, 42; Abbott Sanders, 49, of 420 Miller street; James H. King, 31, of 987 Buss avenue; Amos Penn, Jr., 37, of 600 Riverside avenue; John W. Jones, 30, of 283 Ohio street; James H. McClinton, 39, 143

Low Bid For BH Post Office

$69,280 To Build, Lease Structure

A bid by Building Leasing Corporation of Kansas City, Mo., to build and lease a proposed Benton Harbor post office building to the federal government for $69,280 annually has been sent to Washington D.C., for Post Office department consideration.

The bid, one of seven opened at Grand Rapids yesterday, was over $20,000 lower than the next closest bid of $89,770, according to Frank Sulewski, assistant postal director in Chicago.

Sulewski stressed that this is the apparent low bid, and it must be accepted by the Post Office department in Washington, D.C., before construction can start.

The other six bids ranged from $89,770 to $136,500, according to Sulewski, and were considered too high.

It was the second time that bids have been opened for a new Benton Harbor post office. Five bids were received in March and all were rejected. The low bid at that time $73,900 by a Salt Lake City firm. It was declined because of failure to submit a valid bid bond. The others were considered too high.

PROPOSED TERMS

Building Leasing Corporation of Kansas City, Mo., if awarded the contract, will put up the building and lease it to the government for the agreed price for a 20-year period, with options of renewal. The leasing cost after the twenty-year period will be $71,000 a year for 30 years if the bid is accepted.

The bidder will purchase the property site from the City of

Children's Kitty Gets Unhooked

Patients treated at Mercy hospital yesterday included one black cat, age 6 weeks, with a fish hook stuck on the outside of its tummy, according to the nursing office.

According to the nursing report, four preschool children, old enough to cross the street, brought the kitten to the emergency room to have the fish hook removed about 1:30 p.m.

The nurse on duty performed her duty and the kitten was released.

The Campus Revolt

For as long as we can remember and, when that personal recollection fails by looking into the history books, the college or university campus has always been a seed bed of ferment.

Back in the 17th century when the English were chastising the Scotch for supporting the Stuarts' reign, the students burnt Edinburgh University. As Protestants, they were displaying their distaste for a Catholic headmaster whom one of the Stuart kings installed at the school.

In the late 1920s, Dr. Clarence Cook Little, as president of the University of Michigan, turned Ann Arbor upside down. Most of the faculty detested him because he refused to do battle with the legislature for larger appropriations, and the lay public beyond the campus was highly suspicious of Little's advanced views on that ageless problem of boy and girl upon which Ann Landers writes daily.

Scarcely a session of any state legislature fails to disclose some member demanding a probe on the theme of "what in the World are they teaching our kids at State U?"

Contrary to the Edinburgh example and student political maneuvering in some European and Latin American countries, the campus revolt in the U.S. has rested in sources other than the student body.

The latter has listened and frequently participated, but the idea germinated from a faculty member of an off campus personality.

In fact, until a very few years ago there was great worry and much writing to the effect that most college students were ultra conformists in a conservative, middle class pattern.

Starting with the Berkeley outburst at the main campus of the University of California four years ago, all hell, in the eyes of a startled public, has broken loose.

Deans are being locked up in their offices, cafeterias seized, Negro athletes are forcing Negro coaches upon the team, special racially oriented courses are being shoved into the curriculum, and even in our own backyard LMC some of the kids are smoking pot and injection LSD.

Student Power quite definitely is part of the campus mix these days and in some schools it is a delicate question to ask who's running the store, the administrators and the faculty, or the exhibitionist students.

Although this turbulence largely remains where it began, at the large schools, this is no guaranty it will not filter down to the small college in the same manner that a woman's fashion started in New York City fairly soon works its way into Podunk Center.

What are the causes and the cures for this unnecessary disturbance?

Nobody is completely certain and the modern penchant for surveying a problem to death has not tackled this problem as yet.

There are a few sign posts which throw some light on the fracas and perhaps constitute the answer.

An editorial in the June issue of Fortune magazine lays some of the difficulty with a revision in the college or the university itself.

Originally, says Fortune, the faculty was the seat of all authority, with a president and deans of the various department being window dressing. It was the faculty that the student looked, not only for learning but for whatever personal problems might be plaguing him.

Running a college under modern conditions is similar to operating a business.

The faculty has changed into a sort of intellectual machine. It delivers a product to the student like a drop forge produces parts for an automobile.

The administrators find the money to run the school, serve the meals, provide housing, launder clothes, furnish or supervise recreation, and so on.

This process, maintains Fortune, has created a void between the student and the adults in charge of his schooling. So if he develops a personal problem and, most students have a way of so doing, there is no responsive adult to whom he can turn. At least this is his impression. Consequently the temptation is to lean to someone of his own age who thinks he has the answers.

Not all college administrators or faculty men agree with this diagnosis, but privately some of them agree there is this default from the top and are worried on how to bridge the gap.

Look magazine recently conducted a survey of student newspaper editors as to what may underlie the other side of the campus equation.

Virtually all of them listed the Viet Nam war as the main spring in the student rebellion.

Most of the student editors ascribe a moralistic resentment to the war as the reason for lashing out on other issues.

They would be more honest, in our opinion, to state it in terms of fearing the draft, but there is no doubt the students reflect a similar uneasiness about the war among adults back home and that many adults, in a less demonstrative manner, are back-lashing on other factors in today's scene.

One student editor very possibly put his finger on the crux of the matter. Said he:

"Most of our parents grew up in the Depression, and they were really hurting. They are concerned with money, status, and they're very insecure. Most of us, on the contrary, grew up in the most abundant society the world's ever seen. And to us, abundance and all the trappings isn't something to work for because you have it. You're used to it, it's nothing. So you start getting into human values because you've gone beyond the security thing. And our parents just can't understand that."

So, may we add, the more activist among the students are taking advantage of an administrative default and the restlessness common to post adolescence in any generation to revamp a campus to their own liking.

Does it mean the campus will blow up?

It doesn't have to, providing both sides shed a few shibboleths which are all too easy to grab on to by way of proving a point or rationalizing a position.

Adults, particularly employing managements, have to drop the idea that a college education is the key to the economic kingdom. It is several rungs in the ladder but not the entire ladder. The individual's own effort and drive still separate the men from the boys.

The student pictured by the editor above quoted has to revise his way of thinking.

No nation in history ever had it made as he views it. America does not and never will for the very simple reason that if an economy stays at a plateau it inevitably falls backward.

Today's campus revolt is another way of saying it's a tough world.

When, though, hasn't it been tough?

The first practical air conditioner which controlled temperature and humidity was installed in a Brooklyn printing plant in 1902. Nowadays, air conditioners are used in hen houses (to boost egg production), barns (hogs fatten faster, cows give more milk), and sugar refineries (to keep the granules from lumping together).

The average lightbulb doesn't hold a candle to the firefly, the National Geographic says. A good bulb converts only about 10 percent of its energy into light, wasting the rest as heat. A firefly operates its lamp without heat at better than 95-percent efficiency.

The outlook indicates that Lake Michigan levels will remain about the average of the last 10 years for the next six months.

BORN TODAY
One of the greatest contraltos of the operatic stage, Ernestine Schumann - Heink had comparatively little instruction in musical technique, singing mostly by ear. Her great range of voice, from low D to high C, and her dramatic art gained her an international reputation.

She was born in 1861, in Lieben, near Prague, and later attended the Ursuline Convent where her voice was first recognized. At the age of 17 she became a member of the Dresden Court Opera and first appeared in "Il Trovatore."

Her marriage to Ernst Heink in 1882 caused the loss of her position with the opera. After several years of poverty, she obtained minor roles with the Hamburg Stadttheater. As a substitute for Carmen, she achieved a signal success and was singing contralto and mezzo roles.

She divorced Heink and married Paul Schumann, who died in 1904. At this time she changed her name to Schumann-Heink. In 1905 she married William Rapp Jr., from whom she was divorced in 1914.

Gaining an international reputation at Bayreuth in 1896, she joined the Berlin Opera. She made her American debut in Chicago, Nov. 7, 1898, as Ortrud in "Lohengrin." Later in the year she joined the Metropolitan Opera.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON —There are signs that polarization of political thought in the United States—so evident in the presidential election of 1964—is recurring in the nation. This interpretation stems primarily from the smattering of primary election results in states across the land, but can also be attributed, in part, to the widening gulf between the opposing party candidates on a number of domestic and foreign issues.

In general, the votes for Eugene McCarthy can be lumped in the "liberal" category as they would have been for the late Senator Robert Kennedy. Those for Vice President Hubert Humphrey, and for President Johnson where his name has appeared on primary ballots, as well as for state Democratic "favorite sons" can be placed toward the center of the Democratic party's political spectrum as moderately liberal.

On the Republican side, California Gov. Ronald Reagan attracts the right wing of the Republican Party, and to a lesser extent, so does Richard M. Nixon, although he is nearer the center of GOP political thought and tends to attract

... And Speaking Of Your Health

A new idea was recently implanted in my consciousness and taught me a lesson that will, I hope, save some of the lives of my readers. Ken Purdy, a famous short story writer, is also an expert in racing cars, their drivers and the safety precautions that keep them alive.

He said to me, "I won't drive out of my yard without a safety belt and harness, even when I'm going to the corner market."

I have known him for many years and knew that he was not a fearful or anxiety-ridden person. Rather was I impressed by his stability under physical and emotional pressure. He emphasized his reason for this statement by saying, "It is a mistaken notion that accidents only happen at unusual speed. Most fractures and even deaths, occur when the car is being driven at 15 to 18 miles an hour."

My first reaction to this idea was disbelief until he continued, "What do you think would happen if a dashboard were whipped around on a rope and hit a two hundred and fifty pound football player at the speed of 15 miles and hour?"

This idea will make you sit up and take notice, as it did me. It emphasized the fact that a frightening number of people sacrifice their lives because they have not learned the art of "self-defense" in accidents, by using seat belts and harnesses.

Not more than an hour after I was given this important imprint on my psyche, I stopped at an accident that had occurred a moment before I got there. A man driving an automobile side-swiped a tractor. The car was the kind of total wreck that makes you say, "I can't believe anyone could have survived that." Both the driver and his wife were injured, but insignificantly. They undoubtedly would have been killed had they not been wearing both their seat belts and harnesses. When I left I quickly adjusted mine a little more tightly, adding thanks for the double advice I had been given.

The ultimate hope of scientists working with new anesthetics is to create one of maximum safety. Many are now available and are given to patients of all ages without any of the fears that previously burdened doctors and surgeons.

The "ideal" anesthetic is constantly being sought, even though there is great satisfaction with those now in use. A new one, ketamine, is being studied because of all the great potential possibilities it seems to have.

Dr. Gunther Corssen, professor of anesthesiology at the Medical College of Alabama in Birmingham, is most enthusiastic about this drug, which is neither a narcotic nor a barbiturate. It has a wide range of uses, especially in children. In almost a thousand patients, undesirable effects were rarely found.

The drug is said to have excellent possibilities for short procedures, like dental extractions and oral surgery.

Special operations that usually are unpleasant with local anesthesia have necessitated the use of a general anesthesia, which may be more burdensome than the procedure itself. Ketamine may solve this problem.

The safety of the drug is most marked in plastic surgery, where a child, or an adult, may need repeated operations for skin grafts. The post-operative discomfort is markedly reduced.

As always, all anesthetics are carefully evaluated before they are released. At the present time, ketamine is a most promising advent in this important phase of surgery.

ed, for to assume otherwise would be acknowledging defeat. Declarer must also consider the diamond situation. He sees that the slam is made if the diamonds are divided 3-2, and he therefore directs his thoughts to protecting against a possible 4-1 division.

A little reflection should convince him that it is possible to overcome a 4-1 division on either side. To start with, he leads a diamond to the king and a diamond back.

As it happens, East has no more diamonds and discards a heart. (If East ruffs the diamond, South has an easy time making the rest of the tricks. Had East had the four diamonds, South would cash the A-Q and ruff a diamond in dummy.)

So declarer wins with the queen of diamonds, finesse the queen of clubs, and leads another diamond. Again East discards, since it would not help him to ruff. South wins with the ace and ruffs diamond in dummy.

It does not matter whether East overruffs or not. He can win a trump trick now or later, but, either way, South makes six spades.

Note that declarer cannot make the slam if he does not play the diamonds in precisely this fashion. He must cash the king first and lead diamonds twice from dummy toward his A-Q. To use any other method would be fatal.

Opening lead — three of hearts.

Dummy play generally follows a logical process by which declarer can nearly always find the best method of play.

Here is an example of good technique in dummy play. West leads a heart, won in dummy with the ace, and South draws two rounds of trumps, discovering that East has a trump trick coming.

At this point it is clear that the contract cannot be made unless West has the king of clubs. Declarer consequently assumes the club finesse will succeed whenever it is attempted.

St. Joseph Planners OK Zoning

For Photo Studio; Study Apartment House Request

The St. Joseph Planning commission yesterday moved quickly to approve a zoning change to pave way for construction of a new photographic studio on Columbia avenue, and then studied a request for an apartment house at 3100 Lakeshore drive.

The request to change the zoning on three lots on Columbia street, St. Joseph, from A-3 (residential) to D-2A (business) was approved after planners viewed a sketch of the building proposed by S.H. Herrmann, who presently operates a studio in Three Oaks. Herrmann would operate studios in both St. Joseph and Three Oaks.

The first floor of the Colonial style building would have a main section of 3,500 square feet with room for rental areas of 1,600 square feet on each end. The building would be located on three lots totaling 18,375 square feet. The layout sketch showed room for parking 19 autos.

Living quarters of 1,300 square feet would be located on the second floor. Chairman Donald McGrath noted there is a provision in the D-2A section permitting apartments on the second floor of such buildings.

The planning commission unanimously recommended the change which will be forwarded to the St. Joseph city commission. Their only conditions were that final plans be filed with the city. The developers have a year to build.

Ben Teitel of South Haven and Robert Findling of St. Joseph approached the planning commission to find out what procedure they must follow to get a site just west of the Heath plant rezoned to permit building an apartment house.

The planners said the renewed interest in apartment houses in St. Joseph might prompt another look at sites overlooking Lake Michigan to see if they would encourage such building. Teitel has several apartment houses in South Haven.

Escapees. Steal Cars In Berrien

Three juvenile escapees from the Ingham county juvenile home in Lansing were arrested by Michigan City and New Buffalo police yesterday morning, for unlawfully driving away two automobiles in Berrien county.

According to St. Joseph police, the youths, ages 14, 14, and 16, had stolen a car in Lansing, drove it to Coloma where they switched cars. They drove to Lake Shore apartment in St. Joseph where they stole a third car.

In all three instances, police said, the keys had been left in the cars.

The youths first came to the attention of New Buffalo police when nervousness apparently made the driver swerve the car. Police stopped the car and the driver got out. The other two fled in the car to Michigan City.

The youths were returned to the Berrien county jail where they were picked up by Ingham county juvenile authorities. Police said the youths had been sentenced to the juvenile home for previous auto thefts.

Students Should Get More Say

U-M President Fleming's View

GAYLORD (AP)—The president of the University of Michigan said Friday he believes that students should have a greater say in university matters.

Dr. Robben Fleming told the members of the Michigan Associated Press Editorial Association that the university already has decided to bring students more into university policy decision-making. He spoke at the organization's annual meeting.

"The problem is how to implement this decision," Fleming said. He added that a committee has devoted an extensive study to the mechanics of involving students more in university management.

Fleming pointed out that the average age of University of Michigan students, including graduate students, is over the age of 21, and that the average age of graduate students is over 26.

He said he did not feel that the students were unjustified in demanding more say in university policy at such ages when they could be drafted at 18.

Fleming made his remarks during a question and answer session following a luncheon.

Adventure In Europe For 11 BH Students

A European adventure starts tomorrow for 11 Benton Harbor school students who will fly from Detroit to Rome for five weeks of study on the continent.

They are students in the humanities course which was offered at the high school for the first time this year. It's a blend of economics, history, art, and literature presented by a team of teachers.

The students will leave Benton Harbor about 2 p.m. in transportation of their own arrangement. They will meet at Detroit Metro airport at 7:20 p.m. for the first leg of their flight to Rome. They will return from Europe July 22.

In Europe, they will visit citadels of culture and take courses sponsored by various universities. The 11 BHHS students departing tomorrow are Ray Keigley, John Schultz, Mike Radom, Mike Skolnik, Steve Shaw, Betty Gardner, Jim Atwood, Pat Berry, Paul Trautman, Valerie Miller, and Miles Dwan.

Also making the trip are two Eau Claire students, Patty Hewitt and Bill Swisher. Sue Bilton of Berrien Springs will join the tour on June 21 and Jan Meridian of Benton Harbor will leave June 30. Chaperones are Mrs. Mary Kesler, Miss Emmalou Wilson, Richard Bartz and Wesley Currow—all of the BHHS humanities team.

FIVE STUDY LOCATIONS

The students will spend one week at each of five study locations: Rome, art and history; Florence, art; Lusanne, Switzerland, economics; Paris, music; London, literature. In event of strife in Paris, they will go to Brussels.

Currow said the tour is a supplement to the BHHS humanities course and several of the students will be acquiring college credits.

With two exceptions, the students received their high school diplomas this month. For some the $770 tour tab was a graduation present. For others, it represents work to earn their fare.

For all, the trip abroad is considered one of the biggest adventures of their lives.

Bendix, Union Sign Contract

Three-Year Pact At Local Plant

The Hydraulics Division of Bendix Corp., Lakeshore drive, and Local 383 United Auto Workers, Friday signed a three-year labor contract at the Snowflake motel.

Larry Greathouse, president of Local 383, and Anson Lovellette, director of industrial relations for the company, said the new contract spells out improved seniority provisions, working conditions, some local wage hikes, an apprenticeship program and union representation on negotiations.

Greathouse said members of Local 383 approved the master contract 654 to 117 on Wednesday after a three-hour session last Saturday in which the new contract was explained to members. A 10-day long strike ending April 25 preceded the agreement.

The UAW reported to Bendix at Detroit yesterday that eight locals at plants round the company have ratified contracts. A union spokesman said the contracts were approved by a margin of better than 2 to 1.

Bendix spokesmen declined to discuss contract details but a union source said the agreement includes 20 to 50 per cent increases in wages, pensions, insurance, health plans and supplemental income.

Locals reported by the UAW to have ratified the contract, in addition to Local 383 at the south St. Joseph plant, were in South Bend, Ind., two in Detroit, Peterboro, N.J., North Hollywood, Calif., Elmira and Troy, N.Y.

The two cemeteries that are currently being used are Greenwood and Graceland. Superintendent of Cemeteries T.W. Reck was appointed to collect the fees for the opening and closing of graves and for the sale of lots.

Lake Township Clerk Norman Stelter said the driveways on Greenwood Cemetery will be resurfaced with crushed stone. Shade tree plantings will be made this fall in the new south section of Graceland cemetery, according to Stelter.

$3,500 To Be Paid In Auto Death

Firms, Ex-Deputy Found Innocent

Two local firms and a former Berrien county sheriff's deputy found innocent in March of a traffic death charge must pay the mother of a girl killed in the crash $3,500.

The Friday ruling by Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns in a civil suit by Beulah I. Mauch against Matthew Casserly, Roti Motors, Inc., of Benton Harbor, and Respond, Inc., of Baroda, followed a stipulation on the amount of attorneys for both sides.

Casserly, now of Torrance, Calif., was cleared by Judge Byrns on March 21 on a charge of negligent homicide in the death of Mrs. Mach's daughter, Catherine.

The two-car crash occurred on M-139 in Benton township on Dec. 23, 1965. The Mauchs are from Stevensville. At the time, Casserly was driving a car rented from Roti by his employer, Respond, a distributor of lubricants for die-casting firms.

Atty. James B. McQuillan of St. Joseph represented Mrs. Mauch in the civil action, and Atty. Theodore Troff of Benton Harbor represented Casserly.

Crackdown By State On Pollution

But Extra Cost Won't Show Up Until October

Sewage rates go up 50 per cent July 1 in the Twin Cities, but householders won't know what the extra billing will be in dollars and cents until October.

The Twin City Sewage board which operates the sewage disposal plant located on Industrial Islands, St. Joseph, last spring made plans to expand the plant and refine further the effluent discharged into the St. Joseph river.

The increase in rates is a direct result of an order by the Michigan Water Resources Commission that the Twin Cities must improve its waste treatment plant to remove phosphorous materials. Phosphorous compounds are the key materials contributing to an algae pollution problem in Lake Michigan.

The Twin Cities and eight other local communities were named for phosphorous removal by December, 1972.

The rate charged the Twin Cities will go up from $1.73 minimum covering the first 900 cubic feet to $2.25 for the same amount.

But the two cities have other charges. They tack on a charge to cover the cost of reading the meters, billing customers and collection costs.

Benton Harbor bills some of its business customers by the month and most of its residential users every two months.

St. Joseph bills water and sewage in quarterly units and the hike in the bills will not be noticed until October.

While the hike will go in effect July 1 it won't appear on bills until this fall when water meters are read in September. The sewage rates are based on water consumption and the water meters determine the sewage flow.

The sewage plant will be expanded from its present four-million gallons to eight million gallons.

At the same time the treating process will be refined to remove more than the 90 to 95 per cent of the pollution.

Police said Welch told them the first he noticed the money had been taken was when the Negro ran from the station and fled on foot. He was described as wearing grey trousers and shirt and a black hat.

LMC BOARD APPROVES TEACHER PAY HIKE

Ask Probe Of
Building CracksCounty To Investigate
Courthouse DamageBy BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

The Berrien county building authority Friday voted to ask Chicago architects Shaw-Metz & Associates to investigate cracks in the county's new $3.8 million courthouse in St. Joseph.

The authority met Friday in the courthouse and heard reports on minor and severe plaster wall cracking and cracks in block walls that some observers suggested may be linked to dynamiting along the St. Joseph river nearby for the installation of a retaining wall along the river bank.

Authority Chairman Allen W. (Mike) Baker of Coloma said

Friday he would contact Shaw-Metz, designers of the courthouse, that afternoon by telephone and follow with a letter so a representative would investigate and advise the authority on the extent, if any, of damage from "unknown causes."

Berrien Prosecutor John Hammond, Supervisors' Finance Chairman Ivan Price, and county Building Supt. Florian Rettig indicated to the authority they think cracking may be linked in some way with May and early June blasting of an old bridge abutment west of the courthouse.

BLASTING ENDS

And Berrien Probate Judge Ronald Lange, authority legal counsel and an officeholder in the courthouse, revealed "We had thought . . . about getting an injunction against dynamiting" but discovered blasting had ended.

Employees in the two-year-old courthouse complained of building tremors and cracks in the walls last month and early this month while blasting was going on to clear obstacles for installation of the retaining wall along the river bank—a St. Joseph urban renewal project.

Building Supt. Rettig said the courthouse plastering contractor, Bauma-Betten of Kalamazoo, and a representative from the plaster firm of U.S. Gypsum Co. have been called in to check, but that "we don't have a report either way."

DAMAGE REPORT

He reported severe wall cracks in two second-floor corridors, quarters and the first-floor county agriculture office, and "a lot of minute hairline cracks all over the walls, some areas more so than others."

Finance Chairman Price, who accompanied Rettig on a tour of the building, backed Rettig's statement and said he also saw cracks in block walls.

Judge Lange noted a "ripple" in the building on two occasions, while Prosecutor Hammond said last Tuesday in his office he could see "this wave come across the floor. . . . You could see the walls shift down and up."

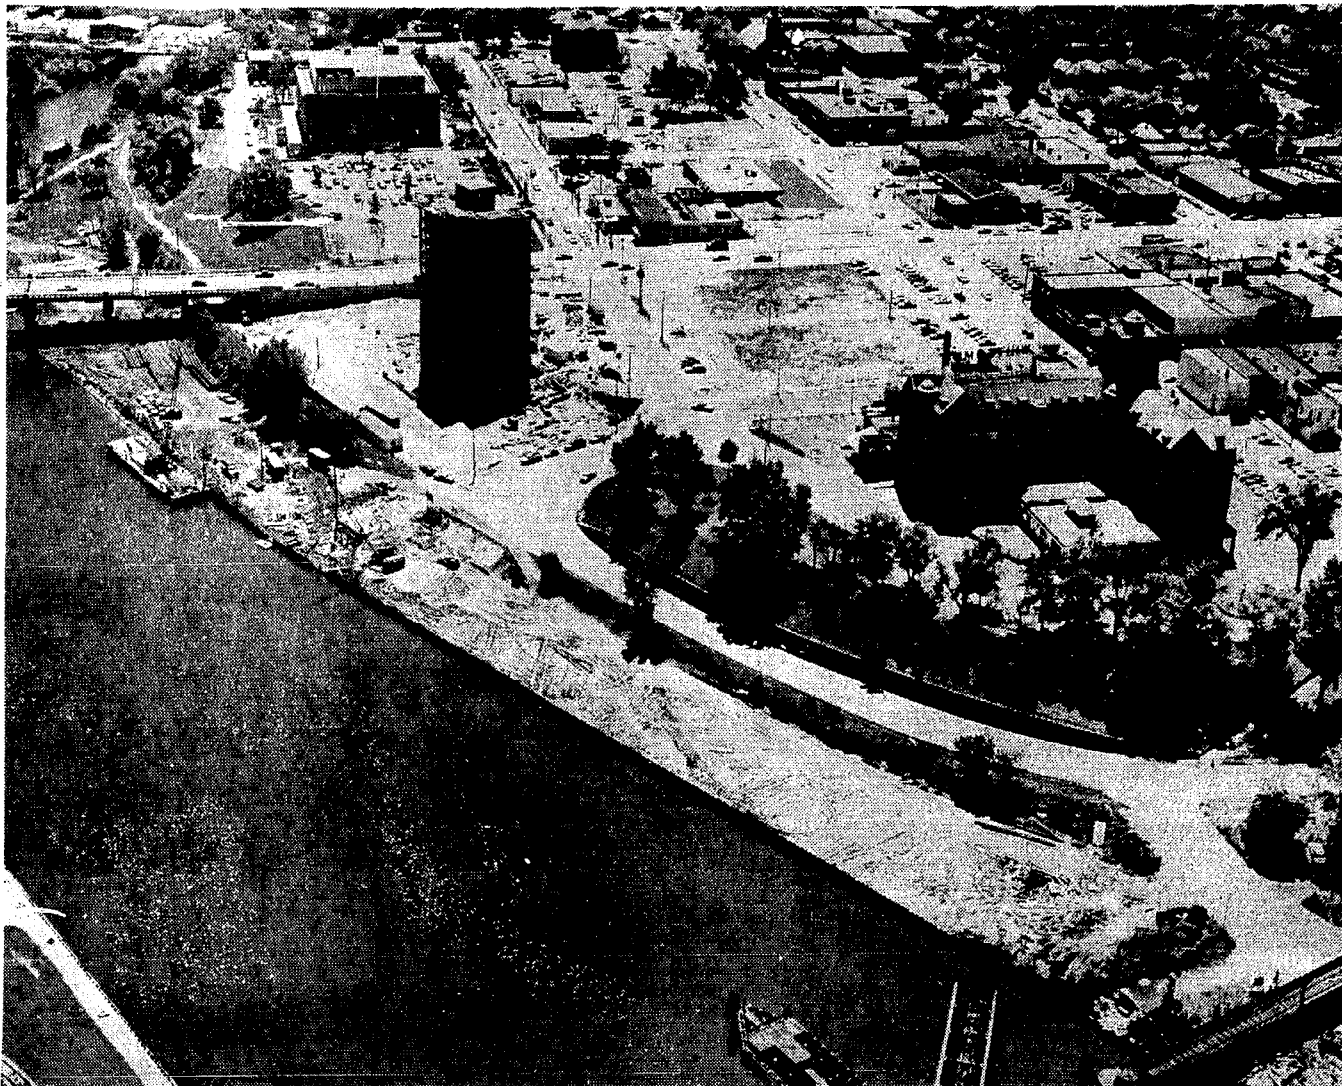

"It was just like a raft made of logs with a wave going under."

Authority Chairman Baker agreed it sounded serious enough to warrant contacting Shaw-Metz. This motion was made by member Joseph Schulte and supported by member Herbert C. Bennington.

Disturbances in the building started about May 15-16, Rettig said.

Lakeshore Board Sets
Meeting On $$$ Woes

The Lakeshore board of education will meet Thursday, June 20, according to Superintendent Edward Stafinski to decide a course of action as a result of two millage defeats. Two millage requests, six mills for operation over a three-year period and a one mill request for a three year period to obtain funds for future sites, were defeated last Monday and on May 6.

Extra operational funds would have provided $246,000 to meet increased costs. Increased costs are a result of increasing the number of teachers needed by increased enrollment and expanded educational offerings, inflation, repairs to the Stevensville elementary school, and the need to provide additional buses. It is anticipated that the district will gain 350 students through the summer months.

Stafinski said the district has 135 teachers and it was planned to increase this number by six. At this date seven teachers are needed to fill vacancies caused by resignations. The replacements of these teachers and the additional six staff members is being held in abeyance until it is determined what action will be taken to provide the necessary funds.

SALARY SCHEDULE

Prior to the millage defeats, the Lakeshore board of education and the Lakeshore Education association had reached tentative agreement to a salary schedule for 1968-69. The schedule would have increased the salary of a beginning bachelor degree teacher from $5,900 to $6,400 and the maximum from $8,400 in 11 years to $9,856 in 12 years. A master degree teacher would have received increases from $6,300 to $6,800 for a beginning teacher and the maximum from $9,072 in 11 years to $10,472 in 12 years. The tentative agreement also provided a $10 per month payment towards an insurance program.

Despite the millage defeats the Lakeshore association has said it will not reduce its salary requests.

Average
Of Raises
Is $900Trustees Also Agree To Pact
On Water LineBY JERRY KRIEGER
County-Farm Editor

The Lake Michigan college board of trustees Friday evening stamped its approval on a 1968-69 teaching contract with the faculty that gives the instructors an average salary boost of over $900 and refined other minor parts of an arbitrated agreement that settled a bitter strike last fall.

The faculty had already ratified the agreement reached by negotiating teams for the administration and the LMC Federation of Teachers. A formal signing is scheduled next week before the close of the current school year next Wednesday.

At the same time, the trustees last evening also agreed to the terms of a contract under which Benton township will provide sewer and water service to the new campus between Napier and Empire avenues.

For the sewer and water installations, the college agreed to pay $125,000 to the township, and then to pay the standard rate in the township for sewer and water used. This rate is one and one-half times the rate paid in the City of Benton Harbor.

Compliments flowed freely between the trustees, administrators and faculty bargaining representatives as final approval came on the teaching contract.

LMC President James L. Lehman called it the "dawning of a new era for our institution."

In addition to the pay boost, other changes of substance from the 1967-68 contract arbitrated by a panel of three Area Resources Improvement council members are as follows:

- Sabbatical leave pay increased from half - salary to full salary for one semester.
- Teaching load of instructors with laboratory classes reduced from 18 to 16 class hours per week. (Contract provides for a committee to study and make recommendations on teaching loads for English teachers by March 1, 1969).
- Personal leave days upon approval of dean.
- Assistant librarians included in bargaining unit.
- Accumulated sick leave increased from 102 to 120 days.

Other changes consisted mainly of "changing words to make them more professional."

The new pay schedule, which Dr. Lehman said was the first offer made by the college bargainers, boosts the pay of a beginning teacher with a master's degree from $7,150 to $7,900. At the top of the scale, the teacher with a master's degree plus 30 credit hours and 13 years of experience is boosted from $11,990 this year to $12,990 next year.

The raises are in addition to the annual $330 longevity increases contained in the pay grid up through 11 to 14 years.

Disorders Won't Be Tolerated

Stand Reiterated By MSU Board

EAST LANSING (AP) — In the wake of student demonstrations on campus, the Michigan State University Board of Trustees Friday restated its stand that disrupting activities "will not be tolerated."

A resolution, passed unanimously, said MSU "stands for freedom of speech, freedom of inquiry, freedom of dissent and freedom to demonstrate in a peaceful manner."

"The University holds that freedom requires order and discipline," the resolution continued, "and to protect the one it must maintain the others."

Some 26 persons were arrested last week in violence-punctuated demonstrations at the MSU administration building. Charges ranged from trespassing (in the administration building after business hours) to assaulting a police officer.

"In any attempt to interfere with University activity, the leaders and participants are held responsible and are subject to appropriate legal and disciplinary action," the trustees' resolution said. Such action, it added, included suspension and expulsion from the university, under established procedures.

But Dean of Students Dr. Milton Dickerson said students arrested last week will face no disciplinary action from his office at this time. He added that should they decide to return to MSU next fall they may face the student-faculty judiciary.

Citing the University's academic freedom report, Dr. Dickerson said the resolution passed by the trustees is an expression of their point of view and not necessarily binding.

Trustees also added sections to a University ordinance dealing with disorderly assemblages a rule under which some of the 26 were arrested.

The ordinance now includes a section stating: "No person or persons shall disrupt the normal operation of any property authorized class, laboratory, seminar, examination, field trip or other educational activity of the University."

In other action, the trustees accepted an $8,000 scholarship fund for Negro students interested in journalism. The fund, established by the MSU student newspaper and the campus chapter of Sigma Delta Chi—a journalism fraternity—will provide two $4,000 four-year scholarships.

DeSapio Is Subpoenaed In Trial

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Tammany Hall leader Carmine DeSapio has been subpoenaed to testify in the bribe-conspiracy trial involving James L. Marcus, removed as city water commissioner.

In U.S. District Court Friday, Judge Edward Winfield ordered the 59-year-old DeSapio to appear Monday and answer testimony that he was a go-between in a $12,500 shakedown by Marcus.

The request to subpoena DeSapio was made by attorney Jacob Kossman, who represents Antonio "Tony Ducks" Corallo, reputed Cosa Nostra figure and one of the defendants on trial.

DeSapio was not available for comment.

The other defendants are Henry Fried, 68, owner of the S.T. Grand construction company; Daniel J. Motto, 57, head of the bakery union; Charles Rapoport, 30, a lawyer; and the S.T. Grand firm.

In Memoriam

IN MEMORIAM OF FATHER'S DAY
A father, loving father.
Who reared and cherished me
And taught me to be a man
For his dear family.
He was a true companion
In sorrow and in pain.
He always did his very best
At any loss or gain.
I miss his dear gentle voice,
I miss his love and his care.
There is a tear drop twinkling,
As I see his vacant chair.
But fathers resting safely
On Jesus throne this day.
